The Hunger Games is written by New York Time’s selling author, Suzann Collins. In the continent of North America there lies the nation of Panem. Panem has 12 outlying districts and one shining capital. These districts are forced to send one boy and one girl between the ages of 12-18 to participate in an annual Hunger Games where they will fight to live on live TV until one victor remains. Sixteen year old Katniss Everdeen takes her sister, Primrose Everdeen’s place in the 74th annual Hunger Games. Peeta Mellark is the boy picked, but no other boy volunteers to take his place. The 24 tributes are sent by train to the capital were they will be trained, interviewed, scored, and paraded. When the tributes are done they are all sent to the arena were they will begin to fight to the live death. Will Katniss win the games by love or die of a horrible painful death?

I think this is the best book I have ever read! This book was filled with excitement, surprises, and love. I relate to this book because just like Katniss I am the oldest kid in my family. I love that Primrose and Katniss have a really tight bond. I also think that it was good that Katniss risked her life to save her sisters life.

I recommend this book to kids ten and up. I recommend this age because the book is a bit gory and there are some parts that younger kids may not understand. I love this book and I think other kids and adults will too!
